THE CRETAN TROUBLES IGNORED, WHILE GREAT PREPARATIONS ARE MADE FOR THE CONQUEST OF THE DERVISHES-TROU-BLE AREAD IN THE MINISTRY.

London, June 13.-Though the smoke of burning villages can be seen from the European crulsers along leagues of the Cretan coast, the Porte has sent official communications to the various embarries declaring that perfect order and peace prevail throughout the island. Ruseia has again become a dead weight on any action by the Powers in connection with the Cretan question. She opposes anything beyond diplomatic protests, which would, of course, be as futile as they were in the case of Armenia. To the representations of Greece against permitting the Turks to crush the rising in the island by sheer force of arms the Powers have made and will make no response, while the Porte is sendwill make no response, while the Porte is sending fresh battalions of troops to Crete to be employed against the Christian insurgents. The forces in the island under command of Abdulla Pacha will soon number 30,000 men. Russia is not even neutral in the matter. She has brought pressure to bear upon the King of Greece to prevent any action being taken by the Greek Government and also to stop private supplies being eent to the insurgents. The sum of the position is that the Turks are getting a free being cent to the insurgente. The sum of the position is that the Turks are getting a free hand to deal with the Christians as they will. The British Government displays no interest whatever in the Cretan question. Its hands are full with the Soudan campaign.

The question asked vesterday in the House of Lords by ex-Prime Minister Rosebery, who destred to know if Lord Salisbury would explain the extent and object of the Angio-Egyptian campaign in the Soudan, brought forth the first Ministerial declaration that the complete reconquest of the Soudan was contemplated by the British and Egyptian Governments. After explaining that the expedition had finally been decided upon when it was known that the Dervishes were threatening Kassala, and that Dongola was the present objective point of the expedition, Lord Salisbury said: "We shall not have placed Egypt in a position of safety until the Egyptian flag floats over Khartoum," which place is the present seat of the Dervish power. This declaration by the Prime Minister will lend strength to the attack of the Liberals on the Government for ommitting the country to unknown but vast expenditures, besides adding energy to the French and Russian hostility to Great Britain's action in Egypt.

action in Egypt.

Conservative orlinion as expressed in the lobby of the House of Commons last night was that Lord Salisbury had been unusually indiscreet, and that he should have limited his explanation to the statement that for the present entry into the Saudan beyond Dongola was not con-templated. It is, however, an open secret, which must be known in Continental as well as in British official circles, that the military prepara-

British official circles, that the military preparations pointed to a campaign beyond Kharteum,

It is the belief of the War Office authorities that the expedition will be at Kharteum by Christmas, and that by the end of next spring it will be at Egypt's southern boundary on the White Nile. The recent victory of the Egyptian traps over the Dervishes at Firket increases the expectations of the English military circle, the members of which think that the expedition will sweep the Soudan without risk of disaster. Cooler calculators, even within the Ministry itself, are considering the possibilities of the strain which will be made on men and money. They do not approve of an advance beyond Dengola.

The recent decision of the Mixed Tribunal at

SUING HIS SISTER FOR A BANK BOOK. James Boyle appeared against his sister, Mary A. Murphy, yesterday, before Justice Beekman, in Special Term, Part III, of the Supreme Court, in a suit he has instituted against her as executrix of the estate of their mother, Mary A. Boyle, to recover a bank book with an account of $2,800 in his name. According to the statement of Myer J. Stein and William Allen, counsel for Boyle, the bank book, which was issued by the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, shows that Mrs. Boyle deposited $2,800 in the bank "for my son James."

Mrs. Boyle, who lived at No. 667 Lexington-ave., died about a year ago, leaving an estate valued at died about a year ago, leaving an estate valued at $150,000, to be divided equally between her two children. The bank book was left to James Boyle, and it was shown that Mrs. Boyle had said that the reason she left this extra $2,000 to her son James was that when he was a small boy she accidentally hit him in the eye with a whip. This blow of the whip destroyed his eye, and by way of a token of regret and compensation she left him the money in the savings bank.

The defence was that, as Mrs. Boyle had exceeded the $3,000 deposit limit in a number of savings banks, she opened the account in James's name.

Decision was reserved.

Captain Quackenbush had been suffering from the effects of the rupture, but was thought to be recovering until yesterday, when it was noticed that he was rapidly failing. A specialist was sent for, but before he arrived at the barracks the officer was dead.

Captain Quackenbush was born in New-York, and was appointed to the service from Virginia, receiving his commission as second lieutenant on Decemher 4, 1869, and being stationed at the Washington barracks. After a year or more of service at the Norfolk barracks, after leaving Washington, he was assigned to the Worester, of the North Atlantic Squadron, returning to the Norfolk station in 1872, where he remained for a year. In 1876 he was at Mare Island, and a year later on board the receiving ship Franklin. He was promoted to be first leatenant on March 8, 1877, and from 1879 to 1882 was attached to the Powhatan, of the North Atlantic Squadron. This was followed by three years of shere duty at Norfolk, Washington and Mare Island, and from 1855 to 1888 he was on the Junfata, on the Pacific station, returning to the Washington barracks for the 1880-82 term on shore, receiving his commission as captain on June 15, 1892, and commanding the marries on board the Newark, on the South Atlantic Station. He was assigned to the Brooklyn barracks on October II of last year. In all his service he had no idle time to his credit, his sea duty having taken up thirteen years and nive months, the jest being occupied with duty on shore. Arrangements for the functal have not been completed, but it is expected that the services in Brooklyn will be brief, the full military functal being held in Washington, where he will be buried. After a year or more of service at the

A RUMOR ABOUT ABBEY'S THEATRE.

AUGUSTIN DALY, IT IS SAID, MAY MANAGE IT NEXT SEASON.

There has been a rumor current for a day or two that Abbey's Theatre was to be managed next season by Augustin Daly. Although Abbey, Schoeffe & Gran have been dispossessed from the theatre since their assignment, it has been generally believed that they would be allowed to keep the house if they wanted it, but it has also been generally believed that they did not want it. The rent of the theatre is high, and it is said to be almost impossible for any manager to make money in it under the condi any manager to make money in it under the condi-tions that have prevailed hitherto and in the present state of theatrical business. It was said, however, that Mr. Pally wanted the theatre, and that the owners, the Goeiets, wanted him to have it, and that some satisfactory arransement was likely to be reached. Robert Goelet, who arrived from Europe on Friday, would say nothing about the matter yes-terday, and Mr. Daiy's business manager, Richard Dorney, said that he knew nothing about any such arrangement. Mr. Daiy has a lease of his present theatre for the next seventeen years.

THE PLATFORM AT ST. LOUIS.

THEY MUST BE SEPARATE PLANKS. From The Indianapolis Journal. The tariff question and the money question are both sufficiently important and sufficiently distinct to stand on their respective merits. Protection and sound money should, indeed, be made the prominent features of the platform, but it should be on separate planks. An attempt to blend or weave them together, besides indicating lack of courage or frankness, would result in weakening both.

THE TARIFF FIRST.

From The Chicago Inter Ocean. We suggest that the tariff plank be the chief pank of the plantorm. The Democratic party is anxious that currency shall be the chief issue. Surely it is not wise to build a fortress according to the design of the enemy that is about to strive to capture it. NO STRADDLE.

From The Boston Advertiser. The money plank of the platform will neither be nor contain a "straddle." It will, on the contrary, declare in language as plain as words can make it against the free-coinage crime and folly.

A WINNING PLATFORM. From The Louisville Courier Journal.

From The Louisville Courier Journal.

Either of the Kentucky resolutions or the Indiana resolution will be a good enough sound-money platform, and coupied with a good protection plank will enable the Republicans to sweep the country. The Republican majority with such a platform will be unprecedented, if the Democrats adopt a free-sliver plank at Chicago, and if they should declare for sound money, which is unlikely, and free trade, which it is certain they will do, the Republicans will beat them with sound money and protection.

THE FINANCIAL ESSENTIALS.

From The Philadelphia Press.

The clean, definite division between those who believe in the existing gold standard and those who believe in the existing gold standard and those who believe in a sliver standard is at last before the country. There is no escape from the issue. Each party must be for or against it. The election of delegates has aiready made the place and position of the Republican party beyond question. The National Convention will affirm this position. Planks innumerable will be presented. Their precise form is of small consequence so long as the utterance in the platform clearly and unmistakely establishes three points: First, the existing standard must be maintained at a level with gold; second, no more sliver coinage; third, any additions to the currency needed for trade to be made by National banks and not by the National Government.
